Regional Indigenous Peoples and Nations Consultation on Climate Change: “Defending our Rights and Defining our Priorities on the Road to Paris and Beyond”*

Sunrise – MH Conference Center

NCAI and the International Indigenous Treaty Council (IITC) are co-hosting a Regional Indigenous Peoples and Nations Consultation on Climate Change to discuss the international efforts to address climate issues in our communities. This consultation will continue the effort to get input into this process from Tribal Nations in North America before the 21st Conference of the Parties (COP 21) of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) to finalize a legally binding international agreement to reduce greenhouse gasses, curb the pace of climate change and define programs to help the most vulnerable States and Peoples to mitigate and adapt to the impacts. Onsite registration will begin at 9:30am.

Morning Sessions:

9:00 – 12:00

Large Land Base Tribal Nations Task Force

Royal Palm Three

The purpose of the Large Land Base Tribal Nations Task Force is to strengthen the ability of NCAI to advocate for the unique issues of the large land base tribes and to foster unity and cooperation among all tribes to preserve tribal sovereignty, lands, culture, and quality of life for all. The Task Force will govern its own proceedings consistent with this purpose.

Task Force on Violence Against Women

Royal Palm Two

The Violence Against Women Taskforce serves as a unified tribal voice opposed to violent crimes perpetrated against Native women. This meeting will focus on updates regarding the implementation of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013, and will also discuss strategy surrounding continued advocacy efforts including protecting our Alaska Native sisters, international women’s issues and funding.

* NCAI assists in meeting space for Consultations and Listening Sessions during the Annual Convention as a benefit to all tribes. These sessions do not require NCAI registration. 1

Tribal, State and County Relations: Coordinating Jurisdictions for Safer Shared Communities

Golden West

Tribal, state and county governments come together to discuss issues of common concern with a particular focus on cross-jurisdictional cooperation and coordination for creating safer shared communities. Key discussions on law enforcement and public safety, child welfare and foster care, and emergency preparedness and response to forge solutions rooted in collaboration and joint action.

Customs and Border Protection Expo

Southwest Parking Lot

All convention attendees are invited to attend the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Expo. CBP is the comprehensive border and management and control agency, combining border security, immigration and agriculture protection. Over 15 CBP programs will be represented providing robust discussions and active exhibits and presentations from the CBP Horse Patrol, Canine Enforcement Team, Agriculture Field Operations, Intellectual Property Rights investigations, and the famed Shadow Wolves, the Native American tracking unit from the DHS Immigrations and Customs Enforcement office. Based on the Tohono O'odham Nation, Shadow Wolf officers are known for their ability to utilize traditional methods to track alien and drug smugglers along the border. In the event of inclement weather, presentations and discussion will be conducted in Terrace Salon Two from 9:00 a.m. through 12:00 p.m.

9:30-3:00

Data Matters: Sharing Strategies for Collecting Tribal-Level Data

California

Tribes and other key partners are invited to an exciting strategy session focused on tribal-level data collection for community planning. Topics for discussion may include designing a tribal census or other population survey, identifying unique measures specific to tribal populations, and coordinating for data management. This session is presented as part of NCAI's National Science Foundation funded work to strengthen tribal data capacity.

Afternoon Meetings

1:00 – 4:00

Federal Recognition Task Force

Terrace Salon Three

The Federal Recognition Task Force was established to address the interests of all tribes, both federally and non-federally recognized, on changes in the tribal acknowledgement process. The Task Force will convene to discuss the revisions to the Part 83 federal acknowledgment process, published in July 2015, as well as the scope of the Task Force going forward.

Women’s Caucus

Royal Palm Five

The Native Women’s Caucus supports the interests of women throughout Indian Country. The Caucus gives visibility and respect to Native women’s perspectives and actions. Sessions will explore emerging issues that our communities are facing and the central roles of women and families.

Native Languages Working Group

Royal Palm Four

Developments on Native languages have taken place on the tribal, state, and federal policy level. Tribes are taking innovative approaches to revitalizing their languages, states are adopting Native languages as official state language, legislation in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to establish a language immersion program is pending in the Senate, so now is the time for a review of the current landscape of Native Languages and discuss next steps. This is an open session of the Native Languages Working Group for a discussion on Native language preservation and strategize the next steps.

Tribal TANF Task Force

Royal Palm One

The NCAI Tribal TANF Task Force will discuss current Administrative and legislative priorities with the goal of improving the function of TANF programs at the tribal level. The TANF taskforce has consistently supported goals to increase tribes' authority to administer their own family support and work readiness programs to serve tribal children and families.

Federal Agency's Roundtable on Addressing Homelessness in Indian Country*

Royal Palm Three

The United States Interagency Council on Homelessness, in coordination with the Departments of the Interior, Housing and Urban Development, and other member agencies, is committed to setting a path to end homelessness among Native Americans. This roundtable will help guide this ongoing work and receive tribal input on: 1) What are the specific needs and circumstances of Native Americans who experience homelessness? 2) What strategies are working to prevent homelessness or to help people who become homeless? 3) What actions at the tribal, state, or Federal level can be taken to address Native American homelessness?

1:00 – 3:00

DOJ Consultation on VAWA Funding*

Royal Palm Two

DOJ will be holding a consultation regarding setting aside funds from existing tribal programs to assist Indian tribes in exercising special domestic violence criminal jurisdiction (SDVCJ) pursuant to section 904 of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013 (codified at 25 U.S. C. § 1304). DOJ's Office on Violence Against Women and the Office of Justice Programs' Bureau of Justice Assistance are considering ways to support tribes that wish to exercise SDVCJ in the absence of a Fiscal Year 2016 Congressional appropriation for this purpose. DOJ would like to initiate formal consultation with officials of federally recognized Indian tribes to discuss this proposal. DOJ has released a framing paper with additional details that is available at <http://www.justice.gov/tribal>.

1:00 – 5:00

EPA Consultation on National Initiatives*

Esquire – MH Conference Center

EPA is consulting on two initiatives. The first item is rulemaking to close existing gaps in Clean Water Act protection for Indian reservation waters where there are no existing EPA approved water quality standards. The second item is proposing development on when and how EPA would raise treaty rights concerns during tribal consultation under the Consultation Policy. For questions, please contact JoAnn Chase, Chase.JoAnn@epa.gov.

Native American Caucus/Town Hall Discussion

Royal Palm Two

Native American Caucus Town Hall. This meeting hosted by Congresswoman Betty McCollum, Co-Chair of the Native American Caucus, will focus on “Building a Stronger Indian Country” by discussing the federal responsibility toward tribal issues impacting Indian Country. This session offers an opportunity for tribal leaders to engage in a dialogue around Congressional policies affecting tribal sovereignty and governmental parity for tribes. This session will highlight the current federal appropriations process with a focus on the impact of the prior government shutdown and sequestration on tribal governments. In addition, issues impacting youth and education will also be discussed at this session. Preference will be given to elected tribal leaders to speak during this event. To RSVP, please e-mail ddesiderio@ncai.org.

Tribal Policy that Heals: Resilience Models that Allow Youth to Thrive

Royal Palm Five

We know that many Native communities face barriers to health and wellbeing, including experiences of trauma and loss. Fortunately, Native families and leaders across Indian Country are drawing on some of the rich and powerful resources that are available. For generations, tribal nations have used language, traditional lifeways, and spiritual practices, along with many other aspects of culture, to foster resilience in youth and families. In this session, we will highlight ways tribes are creating policy to support resilience approaches and moving the goal from surviving to thriving. Our goal is to identify some key elements towards developing resilience tools and a curriculum for tribes.

Moderator: Chester Antone, Councilman, Tohono O'odham Nation

Dr. Stephanie Fryberg, Associate Professor, University of Washington

Jami Bartgis, Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma, PhD, Assistant Professor of Research, University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center

Agnes Attakai, Director Health Disparities Outreach Prevention Education Center for Rural Health; Center for American Indian Resilience Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health

Building a Sustainable Economy: Strategies for Aligning Your Nation's Corporate Priorities with Its Cultural and Social Ones

Pacific Salon Three

This session brings together corporate and political leaders from tribal nations who are working to strategically align their nations' long-term community development priorities with their corporate priorities. Among other things, they will share how they have shaped and reshaped the values, goals and objectives of the businesses owned and operated by their nations to appropriately reflect and reinforce the cultural values and shared aspirations of their citizens. They also will address how they are creating a synergy between cultural considerations, social needs, and business profitability that is capable of advancing and sustaining their overall economy building efforts.

A 21st Century Trust for 21st Century Tribes: Strategy Session on Legislative and Administrative Efforts to Modernize Land into Trust, Trust Asset Management, and the Trust Relationship

Pacific Salon Two

To build off the recent successes and current tribal efforts to modernize the laws and regulations governing the federal trust system, this session will focus on pending legislation addressing specific aspects of the trust relationship. This includes reaffirming the Secretary of the Interior's Authority to take land into trust, protecting land already taken into trust by the Secretary, land reaffirmation legislation, trust asset management reform, and probate reform proposed by the Office of the Special Trustee. The goal is to increase awareness, answer questions, and build broad Indian Country support for these important components of trust modernization as they move forward in the 114th Congress.

Health Sovereignty

Royal Palm Four

The health and well-being of American Indians/Alaska Natives can improve by tribes taking the lead on incorporating innovative ways to provide health care to their tribal citizens. The Indian Health Service is significantly underfunded so tribes are finding others ways to address health disparities. The Swinomish tribe recently made a declaration that it would be moving towards incorporating Dental Health Aide Therapists (DHATs) into their system of care to improve the oral health of their citizens. DHATS have been used in Alaska for over 10 years and have proven to be a safe and cost effective way to increase access to basic oral health care services. Other tribes are taking advantage of the American Indian/Alaska Native Affordable Care Act special benefits and purchasing insurance for tribal citizens through the individual Marketplace. In this session you will learn about DHATs and Swinomish's efforts to incorporate DHATs into their system of care, and about the benefits of tribal sponsorship of Marketplace plans for tribal citizens.

Transboundary Roundtable

Pacific Salon Six & Seven

The health of our rivers and streams is paramount; however, transboundary waterways pollution can have potentially damaging impacts on water quality, fish, wildlife, recreation, livelihood, and customary and traditional practices. After hearing presentations from tribal leaders and experts working on transboundary issues in their communities, we will have a roundtable discussion to bring forward the many experiences, concerns, and ideas to develop a strategy to address transboundary issues from the broader Indian Country perspective. This will also include a review of various tribal resolutions and current efforts to address transboundary issues with the United States, states, and foreign governments.

Fashioning an ICWA Advocacy Plan for your Tribe

Royal Palm Two

This workshop will give tribal leaders the tools they need to advocate on behalf of Indian child welfare on both local and national levels, which will be particularly important as we get closer to the Department of Interior's release of its final Regulations for State Courts and Agencies in Indian Child Custody Proceedings. Tribal leaders want to know how they can be most effective in standing up for their youth populations at home. This session will teach tribal leaders how to effectively advocate on behalf of their children by educating their local communities and Congressional representatives.

Establishing Tribal Mechanisms to Bridge the Digital Divide

Royal Palm Three

The deployment of telecommunications infrastructure and services in Indian Country continues to lag behind the nation overall. Recent studies highlighting these disparities have shown that with every technological advancement in services the Digital Divide has increased on tribal lands. This session will focus on tribes determining their own telecommunications agenda to foster the deployment of economic and residential services on tribal lands. Panelists will discuss tribal initiatives to exercise regulatory authority over telecommunications providers and how to navigate complex federal policies to bring advanced services to tribal lands.

Moderator: Loris Taylor, President & CEO, Native Public Media

Danae Wilson, Manager, Nez Perce Tribe, Department of Technology Services

Fred McLaughlin, General Manager, Standing Rock Sioux Telecom

M. Teresa Hopkins, Active Executive Director, Navajo Nation Telecommunications Regulatory Commission

Higher Education & Tribal Communities

Royal Palm One

This session will explore the role that higher education plays in our tribal communities and how tribal colleges and universities are responding to the educational, training, and cultural needs of Native students and communities. The history of higher education in tribal and non-tribal systems will be discussed, compared, and contrasted, to provide a foundational perspective of the future and vision for higher education for Indian Country.

Dual Taxation: Chronic Impacts of State Taxation in Indian Country

Pacific Salon Four & Five

State governments provide few services on Indian reservations. For roads, schools, police and health care tribes receive inadequate federal funding and the remainder must be generated from tribal government sources. Tribal governments face a losing proposition when forced to collect state taxes: either impose a dual tax and drive business away, or collect no tribal taxes. This dilemma is fundamentally unfair to tribal governments, undermines the Constitution's promise of respect for tribal sovereignty, and keeps Indian reservations the most underserved communities in the nation. To add insult to injury, reservation economies are funneling millions of dollars into state treasuries to spend outside of Indian country. This session will focus on efforts to address this most fundamental challenge to Indian nations.

Moderators: Arlan Melendez, Chairman, Reno-Sparks Indian Colony and John Dossett, General Counsel, National Congress of American Indians

Tribal Homeland Security and Emergency Management Breakout – Session One

Tribal Disasters and Federal Trust Responsibility in Emergency Management

Royal Palm Six

Indian Country has recently experienced unprecedented number of disasters from wildland fires and floods, prompting emergency and disaster declarations in order to seek federal assistance. Tribal declarations for response and recovery under the Stafford Act is now an option, but tribal communities would be better served by equitable access to federal preparedness and mitigation grant programs that states have enjoyed. This session will feature tribal, federal and volunteer organization perspectives on the recent tribal disasters. Federal Emergency Management Agency officials will provide updates on tribal policy and program matters, including availability of tribal emergency management training. There also will be a presentation on a federal program to secure needed and usable surplus property for tribal emergency management programs.

Native Vote: Let’s Talk about Organizing!

Pacific Salon Four & Five

As communities plan to get out the Native vote, NCAI will host a community conversation to share tools and strategies about coordinating GOTNV efforts, ensuring voter protections and rights are in place, engaging particular groups like Elders and veterans, and encouraging Native candidates to run for office, amongst others. Come over to talk story and link arms to make sure our voices are heard!

Discipline & Culture: Stemming the Tide of Native Youth Being Pushed into Prison

Pacific Salon Three

Many Native youth who experience violence and/or are pushed out of schools and foster care systems find themselves caught in a pipeline to prison. In educational settings, cultural mismatch and language barriers may result in disproportionate disciplinary action that can push youth out of school and into prison. In foster homes, challenging experiences may lead some Native youth to run away, endure homelessness, and become involved in juvenile justice systems. In this session, we will discuss tribal initiatives to stop the flow of Native youth into prison.

Protecting Indian Water Rights Under Drought Conditions

Royal Palm Four

With unprecedented drought conditions in California and the Western United States, the right to use and access water has never been more critical. This session will look at the drought conditions and expectations and a few examples of what tribes are doing now and what can be done going forward to protect and assert tribal water rights. After a general overview of water rights and drought issues, there will be presentations on water issues in Northern California and the litigation efforts in Southern California to protect tribal rights to ground water under the Winters doctrine.

Honoring the Sacred, Protecting Our Cultures

Pacific Salon Six & Seven

The protection of sacred places and cultural practices has involved a complex system of laws, regulations, and governmental entities. This session will include panelists discussing various tribal efforts to protect historical areas and former tribal homelands to ensure the preservation of cultural, religious practices and access to sacred places. This panel will also include a discussion regarding the Tribal Cultural Protection Disaster Preparedness Project being spearheaded by the National Association of Tribal Historic Preservation Officers (NATHPO) in conjunction with the Narragansett Tribe THPO.

Workforce Development: Building the Human Capacity to Rebuild Tribal Nations

Royal Palm Two

A growing number of tribal nations are designing innovative approaches to cultivate the abilities of their citizens to pursue careers that those nations have determined are essential to creating the futures they seek. As part of NCAI's ongoing focus on tribal workforce development, roundtable participants will share some of these approaches and explore how tribal nations can assess the current state of their workforces and forecast their future workforce needs, create new jobs and career pathways to meet those needs, and strengthen work ethic and skills to ensure success in those professions. In addition, NCAI will present the initial findings of its comprehensive research on the subject.

Tribal Homeland Security and Emergency Management Breakout – Session Two

International Borders, Travel, Evolving Threats and Homeland Security

Royal Palm Three

The Department of Homeland Security is the federal agency primarily responsible for preventing terrorist attacks and addressing federal disasters. Tribal Nations are an integral part of the national discussion on homeland security. Evolving threats are challenging tribes across the nation and this guided discussion will provide insights of possible solutions. These challenges are amplified as tribes have yet to be provided the federal support necessary to establish and continue to operate appropriate homeland security and emergency management programs. This guided discussion session will include updates from tribal representatives who are members of federal advisory councils. Other presentations include officials from the Transportation Security Administration, US Coast Guard, the DHS Office of Emergency Communications and First Net.

Moderators: Steve Golubic, Former Director, Tribal Affairs, Department of Homeland Security and Robert Holden, Deputy Director, National Congress of American Indians

Bonnie Arellano, Border Security Program Manager and Tribal Liaison, DHS US Customs and Border Protection, Tucson Field Office;

David Munro, Director, Office of Tribal Affairs, Department of Homeland

Leroy Tooley, Yuma Sector Tribal Liaison, DHS Customs Border Protection

International Advocacy to Protect Tribal Sovereignty

Pacific Salon Two

Panelists will provide updates on recent advances and ongoing challenges in implementing the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. Updates will include work related to implementing the Outcome Document of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples and the upcoming UN meeting to finalize a legally binding international agreement to reduce greenhouse gasses, curb the pace of climate change and define programs to help the most vulnerable States and Peoples to mitigate and adapt to the impacts of culture change. The breakout session will also highlight recent developments on the issue of international repatriation.

Moderator: Heather Whiteman Runs Him, Native American Rights Fund

Feeding Ourselves and Our Sovereignty

Royal Palm Five

Building off the recently released Feeding Ourselves: Food access, health disparities, and the pathways to healthy Native American communities report, this session explores the extent of the food-related issues in Indian Country and begins a dialogue on developing tribally-driven solutions regarding access to healthy foods, health issues, and food sovereignty. A key part of this discussion will be the Model Food and Agriculture Code project launched by tribes and tribal agriculture experts to leverage the role of tribal sovereignty in food production in Indian Country. An update on recent negotiations to seat a Working Group of Tribal Leadership to address ongoing issues related to the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (food distribution feeding program) will also be discussed.

Preliminary Damage Assessment (PDA) Manual

Sunrise

9:00am – 12:00pm

The FEMA Preliminary Damage Assessment Operations Manual (PDA) establishes national damage assessment standards developed from historic lessons learned and best practices already in use. The PDA is intended to increase the accuracy, consistency, and efficiency of damage assessments by empowering emergency management officials at all levels with clear information and defined roles and responsibilities. The PDA process is critical in assessing a request from a tribe or state for an emergency or major disaster declaration. FEMA officials will provide insight and guidance to tribal officials on their role in the assessment during this session.

National Museum of the American Indian National Native American Veterans Memorial Project Reception

Pacific Salon Three

Come and celebrate the Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian National Native American Veterans Memorial Project. In December 2013, the US Congress authorized the establishment of the Native American Veterans Memorial on the grounds of the NMAI. The legislation charges NMAI with creating a memorial that would give "all Americans the opportunity to learn of the proud and courageous tradition of service of Native Americans in the Armed Forces of the United States." Native Americans have served in the U.S. armed forces in every military conflict since the Revolutionary War and in greater numbers per capita than any other ethnic group—a fact unknown to many Americans. The time to honor American Indian veterans' service and sacrifice, which spans nearly two and a half centuries, is long overdue.
