

National Congress of American Indians

NATIVE VOTE

Monday, February 22 9:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. Federal Room A

Tribal community Native Vote coordination is always important but requires added commitment and cooperation during election years. The NCAI is making a concerted effort to ensure that American Indian and Alaska Native communities have the tools and technical assistance to provide citizens with all the tools and information to engage in informed election decision-making voting. NCAI will be conducting workshops, webinars and distributing materials about voter education, registration and protection in the coming months. This session will emphasize voter protection and ensuring that Citizens of Indian country are able to cast their ballot a convenient locations, without non-restrictive identification, free from intimidation. There also will be an opportunity for sharing ideas and techniques and providing answers to your Native Vote questions. Please join us in preparing Indian Country to participate in this critical election year processes.
